

THE CITY.

Peace Warrant.

Constable Henry Jones yesterday arrested and confined to jail on a peace warrant.

A Handful.

There were only five cases of drunkenness and disorderly conduct before the City Court yesterday.

Police Circle.

The police circle of the times being duller in the winter months than at any time within the past five years.

Reestablished.

Penn Creek postoffice in Jefferson county, has been re-established, and Mr. S. B. Lewis reappointed postmaster.

Henry Vincent.

Will lecture in Weidinger hall on Thursday and Friday evenings, January 21st and 22d, for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association.

General Albert Pike.

This distinguished soldier, poet and scholar, was in the city yesterday, registered at the Willard Hotel. He appears to be in fine health and spirits.

Fancy Dress Ball.

A fancy dress ball was given last night in the upper portion of the city. It was largely attended by the sporting fraternity, and was a gay and festive affair.

Grand Military Ball.

The officers of the United States Army stationed at this place, gave a grand military ball at Taylor barracks last night. It was largely attended, and was a happy affair.

Suspected Felon.

Thos. Lane, alias Dean, was arrested and lodged in jail last evening as a suspected felon. He gave bail for his appearance on next Wednesday and was released.

A Frivolous Divorce.

L. D. Cunningham, a stable pugilist, was out on a fighting card yesterday. The "L. D." was taken in out of the fight by the "boys in gray" and safely lodged in jail.

Neat Green Southern Greens.

This mammoth exhibition will open in our city on Monday, and stay with us three days. The company is said to be the very best that has ever traveled in America.

A Good Boy for Fires.

There were three alarms of fire sounded yesterday, but none of them amounted to a conflagration. The fire department, however, was out promptly every time, and on hand "like a thumb."

The Heir.

For several days travel has been quite brisk through the city, and the hotels have been well filled with guests. We notice a great many agents and managers from the North passing through to "bliss."

Chancery Court.

This tribunal met in its regular session yesterday, Judge Graham on the bench. No decree of divorce was granted, and the business transacted was of no great interest. The court will hold its next session on Friday.

Fire Last Night.

An alarm of fire sounded at about 11 o'clock last night from signal-box No. 1. It proved to be in a frame dwelling on Fulton street, near Young's saw-mill. The floor of the building was partially burned, but the loss was light.

Dead Dog.

John Armstrong was picked up by the police last evening in a condition as limber as a washed paper collar. Jack had mixed entirely too much whiskey with his water, and it laid him out. He was carried to jail and laid on a shelf for the night.

Alarm of Fire.

The alarm of fire about yesterday was occasioned by the burning of a kettie for in the yard of a cooper shop, on Portland avenue, below Fifteenth street. It was extinguished before the arrival of the engines, and no damage resulted.

The Fire Last Evening.

The alarm of fire at about 5 o'clock last evening was occasioned by the burning of a barn on Hill street, beyond Beargrass cut-off. It was a small building, owned by Mr. Smith, and was entirely destroyed. The loss will not exceed $100.

An Informant.

A bright and pretty young girl, about sixteen years of age, was presented to the City Court yesterday for disorderly conduct. Judge Craig took compassion upon the poor girl, and sent her to the St. Xavier's Industrial School for a term of six months.

More Weddings.

There were two more marriages at the Willard Hotel yesterday. The matrimonial epidemic is raging in all quarters, and from present indications all the girls between the ages of sixteen and thirty will be married off before Christmas.

An Old Citizen Gone.

Mr. J. W. Barick, a resident of Portland, and who is an old resident of this city died at his residence night before last. Mr. Barick was the father of a large and interesting family, and was a most excellent and worthy citizen. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

Wholesale Robbery.

Arrested in a wholesale robbery, a man who is ambitious to lay in a supply of household comforts for the winter, appropriated the clothing and furniture of Mr. Amanda Smith, for which act of larceny he was arrested and lodged in the First-Street station.

Change of Time.

On and after Friday the trains on the Jeffersonville railroad will arrive and depart as follows, making a difference of several minutes from the present time: Express leaves at 7:30 a.m., and arrives at 7:30 p.m. Mail arrives at 5:15, instead of 5:30. Accommodation at 2:15, instead of 1:30.

Y. M. C. A. Festival.

We are requested to call the attention of the ladies who have solicited contributions for the Y. M. C. A. festival, to the meeting at the rooms of the association this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and to urge a full attendance. They are requested to make written reports of contributions received.

Home Thieves.

We understand that home thieves are operating extensively in this county and Bullitt. A few nights ago Mr. Beverly Summers, of Brooks' Station, had a fine iron-grate stolen from him, and several other fine animals have been spirited away from various parts of Bullitt county within the past week. It is believed that the animals are run off to Indiana.

Wool Pulling.

A spirited rough and tumble fight took place between two enraged colored females yesterday, in the alley between First and Second and Jefferson and Market. The names of the combatants were Laura Anderson and Eliza Reynolds. They grappled each other by the wool, and were in a dead lock when Officer Bobsey came to the scene and picked their noses until they let go their deadly grips. The girls were committed to the First-Street station, and this morning the facts in the case will be fully developed before the City Court.

REV. GEORGE O. BARNES.

His Election as Co-Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Appropriation for Street Raising.

DRUGS FOR THE POOR.

THE BOARD MEET AGAIN TONIGHT.

The Board of Common Council met in a regular session last night, President Patton in the chair.

EVERY DAY.

The special attention of the ladies is called to J. M. Ladd's advertisement in the local column.

City Taxes.

Mr. A. B. Barnes publishes a notice this morning in which delinquent tax-payers are invited to make their payments.

Interesting News.

To know the lowest prices dry goods can be sold for in the United States go to Trade Palace, corner Fourth and Jefferson.

New Style Hats.

Messrs. Green & Green have just received all the latest styles of winter hats and hats.

Crowded Roads.

A grand crowd came out every day at J. M. Ladd's, Main street. His new style of leather belt and soft hats run like a railroad express train.

Notice.

There will be a meeting of the Commissioners and Friends of the Louisville, Harrodsburg and Virginia railroad at the County Court room this evening at 7 o'clock.

An Hero.

In the notice of the "Democratic" touching Mr. Kinman's umbrella establishment, the types located the branch house, superintended by Mrs. Kinman, on Main street, when it should have been on Third street.

Oyster and Opossum Supper.

The Magnolia Saloon, on Green street, will serve up a glorious oyster and opossum supper to-night, from 9 o'clock to midnight.

Monthly Bank Statement.

The following is the statement of the various banks in Louisville (excepting the National Bank) for the month of October, 1908:

Name	Assets	Liabilities	Surplus
Commercial Bank of Louisville	$1,000,000.00	$800,000.00	$200,000.00
First National Bank	$500,000.00	$400,000.00	$100,000.00
Second National Bank	$300,000.00	$250,000.00	$50,000.00
Third National Bank	$200,000.00	$150,000.00	$50,000.00
Fourth National Bank	$100,000.00	$80,000.00	$20,000.00
Fifth National Bank	$50,000.00	$40,000.00	$10,000.00
Savings Bank of Louisville	$1,500,000.00	$1,200,000.00	$300,000.00
Trust Company of Kentucky	$750,000.00	$600,000.00	$150,000.00
Bank of Kentucky	$250,000.00	$200,000.00	$50,000.00
Bank of Louisville	$150,000.00	$120,000.00	$30,000.00
Bank of Commerce	$100,000.00	$80,000.00	$20,000.00
Bank of Industry	$50,000.00	$40,000.00	$10,000.00
Bank of Labor	$25,000.00	$20,000.00	$5,000.00
Bank of Progress	$15,000.00	$12,000.00	$3,000.00
Bank of Unity	$10,000.00	$8,000.00	$2,000.00
Bank of Welfare	$5,000.00	$4,000.00	$1,000.00
Bank of Peace	$2,500.00	$2,000.00	$500.00
Bank of Hope	$1,250.00	$1,000.00	$250.00
Bank of Charity	$625.00	$500.00	$125.00
Bank of Love	$312.50	$250.00	$62.50
Bank of Mercy	$156.25	$125.00	$31.25
Bank of Grace	$78.12	$62.50	$15.62
Bank of Faith	$39.06	$31.25	$7.81
Bank of Trust	$19.53	$15.62	$3.90
Bank of Right	$9.77	$7.81	$1.95
Bank of Truth	$4.88	$3.90	$0.98
Bank of Justice	$2.44	$1.95	$0.49
Bank of Temperance	$1.22	$0.98	$0.24
Bank of Purity	$0.61	$0.49	$0.12
Bank of Sobriety	$0.30	$0.24	$0.06
Bank of Modesty	$0.15	$0.12	$0.03
Bank of Simplicity	$0.07	$0.06	$0.01
Bank of Cleanliness	$0.04	$0.03	$0.01
Bank of Order	$0.02	$0.01	$0.01
Bank of Industry	$0.01	$0.01	$0.00
Bank of Labor	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00

Hunting in Indiana.

A howler from the vicinity of Thornton, Indiana, brought the news of a successful hunt for the month of October. One of the turkeys weighed nineteen pounds, and is said to be the largest ever hung up in this market. His disposal of the turkey was made by the hunter, on Third street. The above story contained one day's hunting in that prolific game region.

Didn't Have the Stomach.

A consignment of nine barrels of peach brandy was seized at the freight depot of the Jeffersonville railroad, on Thursday. It was consigned to dealers in Indianapolis from the Fourth street depot. The value of the vines is about seven hundred dollars. It has been placed in the bonded warehouse to await the disposition of the United States Court, Louisville, who are now in possession of the proper revenue stamps.

Severe Accident.

Mr. Henry Dodge, a brickman on the Frankfort railroad, met with a severe accident yesterday, at about noon. While in the act of coupling cars, he got his left hand mashed to such an extent that the amputation of the limb was deemed necessary. The operation was performed by Drs. Leiber and Gross. His hand was shockingly mangled, but it is hoped that the hand and remaining fingers will get well.

Theater Company.

This very popular piece of amusement was given last night at the Metropolitan new program is offered for tonight, (Monday) night next Manager Simons, with his very large and popular company, will open the Metropolitan Theatre for the month of November. A number of new and talented artists are engaged and will appear in rapid succession. Look out for a new program for Monday night at the Metropolitan. For particulars see posters and small bills.

Accident—One Boy Killed by Another.

We learn that a distressing accident occurred on Tuesday last, at a point about six miles from Campbellsville, in the case of a small child. The child, son of Mr. Adeline Taylor, while returning from school in company with a son of Mr. G. B. Bailey, was accidentally struck on the temple by a stone thrown by the latter. The child died of the effects of the blow. He was about fourteen years of age, and Mr. Bailey's son was still young. The lad was school-teacher, and warm friend of the deceased. The accident occurred on a gloomy, overcast day, and the friends of both families have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community. It was purely accidental, and no blame is attached to Mr. Bailey's intention.

Louisville Openhouse—Benefit of Miss Charlotte Crumpton.

The Anglo-American tragedy, "Elizabeth," as produced by Miss Crumpton last night, deserved a warm commendation for the quality of its merits than was accorded to it. We are inclined to the opinion, however, that this result is to be ascribed to the threatening aspect of the weather, which doubtless deterred numbers from attending the performance.

Miss Crumpton's conception of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor Miss Crumpton possesses the wonderful tragic genius of the character of Elizabeth, in the main, greatly resembles that with which our readers are already familiar, through the representations of Madam Trestor and Mrs. Lander. The true fact is that neither Mrs. Lander nor

